This story was originally published in Day One, a weekly literary journal dedicated to short fiction and poetry from emerging writers.

Until recently, the tiny tropical island had been a trendy vacation destination. But when a deadly parasite in local waters makes worldwide news, the island is quarantined, and the natives—who seem to be immune—are left to their crumbling luxury hotels and empty beaches.

During the boom times, the young man was a limo driver to the stars. He'd even enjoyed a short stint of fame as the backseat-hot-tub companion of a made-for-reality-TV beauty. Now he has only one occupation: to find Tater Tot, a lost celebrity lapdog whose return would bring an ample reward. As a hurricane threatens the already hurting island, he must intensify his search to capture the Chihuahua, claim the reward, and win back all that he's lost.
